Citizens protest possible sewer rate increase

Two dozen citizens turned out Monday afternoon to tell the Board of Directors of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District to challenge a proposed 300 percent increase in their sewer service charge.

At the board's urging, District Manager Peter Archuleta presented six alternatives to his original proposal that the rate be boosted from 59 cents to $1.76 per 100 cubic feet of water used.

(That rate is multiplied by the number of water units used in January and February, two months of low water use arbitrarily selected by the board.)

Archuleta's alternatives proposed rates ranging from $1.23 to $1.45. He recommended that the board adopt a rate of $1.28.

But representatives of three local groups told the board flatly that the highest the rate should be is $1.00.

Under Archuleta's $1.28 rate plan, the district would get along with $3.2 million less than the $9.6 million in expenditures originally proposed for 1979-80. The current year's budget is $7.4 million.

The cuts that he reluctantly proposed are:

- $31,565 out of $160,000 allocated for capital equipment.
- $47,880 out of $1.1 million for personnel.
- $239,503 out of $2.3 million for operations.
- $200,000 out of $1.8 million for general reserves.
- The entire $145,368 set aside for a delinquency reserve designed to cover non-payment by some customers.
- $2.6 million out of $4.0 million for capital improvements.

Archuleta explained that four capital improvement projects would have to be postponed under the plan: building of a Lake Merced trunk line, a hookup from the Southern Hills area to the sewage treatment plant (ending the need to purchase sewage treatment services for this area from San Francisco), a computer system to streamline plant operations, and Phase II of a reclamation project that would enable the Colma cemeteries and the Lake Merced Golf and Country Club to purchase recycled water.

He said the district would lose $1.5 million in federal and state money by not going ahead with those projects.

Director William Schumacher questioned the staff closely about why it was proposing such large reserves for the first time in the district's recent history.

Archuleta pointed out that the district is trying to amortize the $20 million cost of the sewage treatment plant over a 30-year period.

Citizens got down to more basic issues.

"Why should the cost of sanitation be twice or three times what it was last year? Water, electrical and phone rates haven't gone up that much," said an angry Julius Castelan.

Other members of the audience criticized the staff for, they said, appearing to make a rate reduction from $1.76 to $1.28 a bargain — when, in fact, Archuleta's proposal is more than double the current 59-cent rate.

Five people were trying to outscream one another when William Wade of the Westlake Subdivision Improvement Association calmly noted that he represents 20,000 sewer customers and asked to have the floor.

Wade explained that he has spent the past two years participating on a citizens' advisory committee to the sanitation district and is very familiar with its budget.

Then he launched into a 10-minute

Jeff board prexy resigns

Jefferson Union High School District Board President James Roman is resigning after serving on the board for four years.

Roman, who attended Westmoor High School in Daly City and later taught at Oceana High School in Pacifica, informed the district that a promotion he has received from Pacific Telephone, his employer, will take him to Sacramento.

He is expected to announce his resignation publicly at the board meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the council chamber at the Daly City Civic Center.

Superintendent Floyd Gonella said the board will discuss then how to fill the vacancy. Roman's term runs through this November.

Gonella said board Vice President George Robinson will be the next board president.

TRASH IS HEAPED OVER MUCH OF THE MOUNTAIN

New cleanup effort for the mountain

By TERRY DAVENPORT
Post Staff Writer

San Bruno Mountain is fast becoming a gigantic garbage can.

Stroll across its golden slopes and you're likely to stumble upon an old mattress, a decaying refrigerator or a mountain of tires.

As San Mateo County's park supervisor for San Bruno Mountain, Ronald Weaver said he's continually amazed at the items people dump there.

"A person can scrounge all sorts of valuable things on the mountain," he remarked, noting he has found, among other things, broken radios, piles of plywood, sofas, shoes, clothing and bundles of newspapers.

Many far less attractive things are found on the mountain, too: Puddles of oil drained from people's cars, mounds of rotting vegetables and pile after pile of garbage that people dump there rather than paying their local scavenger companies to haul away.

Even murderers have taken a liking to the mountain. They have dumped two bodies there within the last two years.

The county's efforts to clean up San Bruno Mountain have been limited to an occasional sweeping of its main roads. Weaver said they are so badly littered that the county recently cleaned up 50 cubic yards of trash in just six hours.

Part of the incentive is that litter is interfering with the mountain's natural drainage and its wildlife.

He and other park rangers have the authority to cite people who are caught in the act of dumping, but they seldom do.

"It's pretty hard to caught anybody. I can't follow all the people coming up the mountain and wait to see if they dump anything. It take them only a few seconds to toss something and be on their way."

Weaver is upset. "This is an ecologically sensitive area that deserves to be protected. There are seven rare or endangered plants up there, two of which are only found on that mountain, and there's one rare butterfly."

Help is on the way. San Mateo County is planning a massive cleanup of San Bruno Mountain on Aug. 17-19.

As the county's new litter control coordinator, Weaver is organizing the campaign, dubbed "Mountain Revenge 1979."

The plan is to have about 700 volunteers concentrate on picking up litter on 40 of the most-used acres of the mountain over the three-day period.

"We're getting an unbelievable response," Weaver said. So far, 400 persons have volunteered to help, mainly due to the efforts of the Daly City Clean Community Committee.

Participating will be Boy and Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, the Committee to Save the Mountain, the Sierra Club, Latter Day Saints, Explorer

San Pedro Park —1,200 wilderness acres

By HEIDI VAN ZANT
Post Staff Writer

Finding a big, beautiful park where you can go hiking and enjoy nature is not hard. But finding that park close to home is another matter.

However, lucky Pacifica residents and other nearby North San Mateo County inhabitants have to look no farther than San Pedro Park—1,200 acres of lush wilderness tucked away in a sunny Linda Mar valley.

Ranger David Moore thinks the county park's biggest asset is "being a wilderness park so close to an urban area." The site is about 1½ miles inland from Highway 1 at Linda Mar Boulevard.

Joggers and hikers are encouraged to use the park's four newly-completed trails, which range in length from one-half a mile to 1.6 miles. A trail for the handicapped, including those in wheelchairs, should be completed by September.

Bids for constructing a toll house, restrooms and picnic facilities will be sent out in August, said Moore. Only the trails and parking facilities have been completed for the park, which has not been officially opened yet.

Visitors to the park say they are amazed at how quiet and peaceful their strolls are, especially considering how close San Pedro Park is to "civilization."

"It's better than Yosemite to me. We really love it up here," said Pacifica resident Bill Hucker, as he hiked along Brooks Falls Trail with his wife Virginia and their 2-year-old daughter, Heidi.

"It's kind of a renewing experience," said Hucker, who walks in the park nearly every day.

Ranger Moore said the Huckers are typical of the young families using the park since he began overseeing its development more than three years ago.

On a typical weekday, about 75 people will visit the park. On weekends, usage swells to 400. Visitors are not charged an entrance fee now, but when the toll booth is installed each car will be charged $2 while walkers still will enter free.

Developing campsites in the park is not a future priority, Moore said, although he expects that in the next few years a network of area backpacking trails will include San Pedro Park.

As he walks along the Brooks Falls Trail, the ranger points out that it took a crew of eight workers three weeks to clear a three-foot-wide trail in the heavy brush.

"We had guys in the hospital from cutting this trail," said Moore, noting that park visitors who stray off the trail may notice an abundance of poison oak.

Tall eucalyptus trees shade the trail, but Moore said those trees are slowly being replaced with trees native to the area, such as redwood and Douglas fir trees. Last year 2,000 redwoods were planted in the park.

"It's an on-going process," said Moore, who acknowledged that all the trees won't be replaced in the span of his lifetime.

The trail winds along a view corridor overlooking a valley of thick brush and green hillsides. Although Brooks Falls is only a trickle now, he said that the seasonal falls is 175 feet in length and in three tiers.

The park's serenity is maintained by not allowing dogs or off-road vehicles to roam the area, said Moore, who disclosed that someone caught riding an off-road vehicle in the park could be fined $20.

Keeping dogs out of San Pedro Park, which Moore referred to as the former "dog-run of Pacifica," means that "wildlife is coming back like you wouldn't believe."

A fox with two pups recently was sighted in the park, said Moore, who also has seen bobcats, deer, raccoons and possums.

Murder verdict reached

A San Mateo County Superior Court jury Friday convicted Craig Johnson of second degree murder in the death of a 19-year-old Daly City woman last April.

Johnson, a 22-year-old security guard at the Sunset Scavenger's landfill site near Brisbane, faces a possible sentence of 15 years to life imprisonment.

Superior Court Judge Robert Miller has set Aug. 16 for review of probation report and sentencing.

Prosecuting attorney Paula Schlicter alleged that Johnson drove Kristy Roza to the landfill site, made sexual advances, and then beat her to death to prevent her from talking about it.

Miss Roza's body was found dumped near the landfill site April 13.

Scouts and several senior citizen groups.

The San Mateo County Transit District will help move people to and from the mountain.

McDonald's and Straw Hat Pizza have agreed to donate lunches and the U.S. Army Reserves will transport truckloads of garbage from the site.

Budweiser will supply free beer to adult participants and will set up a recycling center.

The beer company will pay 29 cents a pound instead of the usual 23 cents per pound rate to persons who donate aluminum to the Clean San Bruno Mountain effort.

Anyone else who wishes to participate can contact Weaver in care of the county's division of Parks and Recreation (364-5600, ext. 2486) or Daly City Councilman Albert Teglia at Daly City City Hall.

Additional meetings of the mountain cleaning organizers are scheduled for July 31 and Aug. 14 at 6:30 p.m. at 312 90th St., Daly City.

Plans are underway to help keep San Bruno Mountain clean after the August clean-up.

The "Mountain Revenge" is just one of a myriad of clean-up efforts underway in San Mateo County.

The county and its 19 cities are pooling $137,315 in state money that they will receive under Senate Bill 650, the Litter Control, Recycling and Resource Recovery Act through July 1980.

The state is allowing local entities to decide how to spend the money. In San Mateo County, litter projects are being organized by individual cities and by Weaver in the county's unincorporated areas.

Weaver and an as-yet-unhired litter enforcement officer are the only paid personnel involved in the clean-up campaigns—and they will only be paid to work part-time on the project. A total of $19,823 is set aside for both salaries.

Part of their responsibility will be to review litter ordinances in various cities and try to make them more uniform and, thus, more likely to be enforced.

The rest of the grant will be used to buy trash containers, hire youngsters to pick up litter and buy lunches for volunteers who help with projects.

Among projects proposed by cities are the installation of litter receptacles in Millbrae, Belmont and Daly City, a clean-up of hard-to-reach alleys in Burlingame and a combined beautification and litter pick-up effort in East Palo Alto.

Portola Valley already has hired crews of youths to clean its roadways.

Weaver has two other projects in mind for unincorporated sections of the county besides cleaning San Bruno Mountain: A litter pick-up along the county's beaches and one along Canada Road.

At the present time, Teglia, Weaver and the county's public works director, George Laakso, are in charge of reviewing litter project applications to make sure they fulfill the state's guidelines.

Meanwhile, the county's Regional Planning Commission is in the process of appointing citizens to a litter advisory committee that will screen applications, oversee the litter projects, publicize them and evaluate them after they are completed.

Citizens interested in serving on the committee should contact members of their local city councils or Teglia, who is in charge of RPC's litter control effort.

Weaver knows that the task ahead is a big one. "Everyone wants to do something about litter but it's always the lowest priority," he conceded.

His enthusiasm for the mountain is surely one of the main reasons for the current push to clean it up.

"Before I was assigned to this place, I thought it was Siberia. Now I think it's one of the most beautiful places I've seen," he said.

The removal of litter does make a difference. Weaver said the sporadic clean-ups already have resulted in an increase in the animal population on the mountain.

He is so defensive about San Bruno Mountain's right to be free of ecologically-endangering clutter that one pities the next person he catches dumping debris there.

attack of the district's budgeting methods, claiming:

- The district has not carried over $550,000 it budgeted in 1977-78 or $860,000 it budgeted in 1978-79 for Phase I of the reclamation project.

He asked what had happened to the money, since the project hasn't yet been completed.

- The district has not done feasibility studies on the Southern Hills connection or a methane recovery project it wants to begin this year.
- The district doesn't need a computer operating system.
- Prudent management throughout the year would eliminate the need for a $1.8 million cash reserve to carry the district through the "dry period" when no revenues come in.
- The district can borrow money from the state at low interest rates rather than set aside $600,000 for depreciation of equipment.
- A $258,000 contingency reserve for administrative costs is unnecessary.
- The district should take bad debts into consideration when planning its budget, rather than allocating $145,000 to cover them.

Archuleta promised to review Wade's proposal in detail at the next public hearing on the proposed rate increase. It will be held July 30 at 12:30 p.m. in the district's office at 153 Lake Merced Blvd., Daly City.

HELP FOR MAMA

Kurt Lapham, a humane officer with the Peninsula Humane Society, brings a very pregnant German shepherd into the shelter — his second such case in two days.

Srock's hearing: A lot of unknowns

No one seems to know whether Daly City Police Officer Stephan Srock's dismissal hearing, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday in Daly City Civic Center, will be open to the public.

In fact, no one seems to know whether it will be held at all.

Srock's attorney, Charles Garry, said Tuesday, "I will demand an open hearing."

But he also said the State Supreme Court could grant his request and intervene to prevent the hearing from being held.

Garry said the high court's clerk asked City Attorney Albert Polonsky Monday to postpone the hearing until after July 27—the date by which the court has said it will rule on an appeal sought by Garry.

Garry is appealing decisions on his client's request for a writ of prohibition to block the dismissal hearing. Two lower courts have ordered that the hearing proceed.

By refusing to grant that request for a postponement, Daly City isn't violating the law. But things could get sticky if the Supreme Court grants the appeal after the hearing is held.

Polonsky said Tuesday that the hearing will be held but that he doesn't know whether it will be open to the public or not.

He said dismissal hearings generally are closed to protect the employee but, in this case, the determination on closing or opening the hearing might be made by the presiding officer, retired Superior Court Judge Louis B. Dematteis.

The incident that led to the Police Department's recommendation that he be terminated was Srock's handling of a routine traffic stop in which he allgedly threatened a woman's dog with a gun.

'Dad' delivers puppies

By Terry Davenport
Post Staff Writer

Kurt Lapham's co-workers at the Peninsula Humane Society are calling him "Dad."

The 23-year-old state humane officer rescued two canine mothers-to-be within two days—his first attempts at "middoggery" during his six-month career.

Lapham found the first dog Thursday morning, lodged so tightly between a house and a wooden fence adjacent to the Cow Palace in Daly City that he had to shinny in sideways to reach her.

When he found the German shepherd, she had just delivered one puppy. Upon the direction of a Humane Society veterinarian that he phoned, Lapham did not try to move the dog right away.

Returning later that day, he found six puppies and a dog-tired mother.

Lapham marveled at the tenacity of the dog, which he judged to be at least 10 years old.

"The space was so tight she probably had to stand up to give birth," he said.

After much careful coaxing, the new mother permitted him to hand her puppies through a window in the house to his partner, officer-in-training Gary Stern.

The German shepherd dropped a seventh puppy as she jumped into their truck and she had an eighth Thursday night at the shelter.

At last report, mother and children were doing fine.

When Lapham approached with a few dog biscuits, the mother dog's brown eyes lit up happily and she wagged her tail. The wriggling mass of nursing puppies made it hard for her to move.

Lapham said he is thinking about adopting the mother dog.

"Her chances of finding a home at her age are slim," he pointed out.

Word of his kindly manner must have spread overnight.

Friday afternoon, Lapham got a call about another mother-to-be, this time from South Mayfair Avenue in Daly City.

When Lapham returned to the Humane Society with a very pregnant two-year-old German shepherd, which looked like it was going to give birth any minute, his colleagues couldn't resist teasing him about his finesse with the ladies.

While the gas lines, alternate day selling and all the accompanying hassle may have put a damper on vacation trips via the family car, there is certainly no slow down in the number of tours available to persons wishing to try an ocean cruise or a trip via airplane.

Currently, three groups are seeking persons to sign up for fall trips.

Members of the Daly City Chapter of the American Association for Retired Persons (AARP) is now taking registrations for a junket to Hawaii in September.

Mrs. Doris Johnson, tour chairperson for chapter 1541, will take your deposit for the AARP trip which will leave San Francisco International Airport Sept. 20. During the 10 days that the group is in the islands, the itinerary calls for stops at Honolulu, Maui, Hilo, Kona and Kauai.

If you are a little more daring and really want to expand your frontiers to the exotic Middle East you will want to contact Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg about the Fifty Plus Club's two-week Eastern Mediterranean air sea cruise which will leave San Francisco's airport on Oct. 13 and fly with British Airways to London and Athens. In the ancient city of Athens, the tour members will switch from plane to cruise ship for visits to the harbor at Itea and the city of Delphi, on to Keraklion on the Isle of Crete and then to Port Said and visits to Cairo, the Suez Canal, the Sahara Desert, travel on the Nile and view the pyramids of Chefren, Mykerionos and the Great Pyramid of Cheops and the Sphinx.

From Egypt, the travelers will go to Haifa, Israel, and the Holy Land with a visit to the famous monastery at Mt. Carmel and the well of Elija. Before leaving the Holy Land guides will lead the tourists through the cities of Jerusalem and Bethlehem.

A taste of the rich history of Rome and Byzantium will be offered to the group when they reach the Greek Isle of Rhodes and then the Archeological Museum in Istanbul, Turkey, will provide background knowledge for the junkets into Kusadasi, Ephasus and Patmos.

If the Middle East is your goal for the fall, call Mrs. Funderburg.

If a cruise closer to home is your idea of a perfect way to spend the first ten days in November, you might want to take advantage of the Balboa Alumni Association's Cruise to Mexico aboard the ship T.S.S. Fairsea.

Swimming, sun and trips ashore to visit colorful Mexican coastal towns in Baja California are the promised attractions of this vacation.

A special adoption ceremony is planned for the cruise and persons who never had the opportunity to attend Balboa will become adopted members of the Alumni Association.

For this trip, call the Perrets, Gloria and Gene, in Burlingame.

Pamphlet describes Press Hall of Fame

Sam Chandler

"If you want a true Christian, choose an editor . . . bewhiskered champion of liberty, torch-carrier for justice, seeker of truth and author of the homespun phrase."

Quoted from "Newspapering in the Old West"

So the word came to the journalist James King of William. He called himself "the silent monitor of moral obligation" and said it was his mission to expose the corruption that plagued San Francisco and all of California. Nine months later he was shot by one whom he had exposed.

Over 100 years after his pen fell silent, James King of William was chosen the first person to be remembered in the California Newspaper Hall of Fame. It was noted by the committee that made the selection that King's courage led to the formation of vigilante committees that cleaned up San Francisco and gave their blessings to similar committees that met the mendicantes who fled from California to other territories.

The Hall of Fame of the California Press Association has been placed in the California State Library, with exhibits of plaques and pictures in the auspicious Governors' Hall. To date, the names of 32 journalists have been enshrined as a tribute to their services to the state of California.

Ah, what stories their lives make. One of them, Walter Colton, set out to learn the cabinetmaker's trade but subsequently changed to become a minister, then a chaplain in the U.S. Navy, then the Alcalde of Monterey and finally founder of one of the West's first newspapers, The Californian. Because of his work, gamblers paid $20 each to help cover the costs of building California's first school house.

His partner on The Californian was Robert Baylor Semple, who managed to cram into his lifetime experience as a printer, dentist, lawyer and medical doctor. He presided as California's Constitutional Convention, took part in the Bear Flag Revolution and fought alongside John C Fremont. Then, to add to his fame, Semple was the groom in the first marriage in the state in which both parties were Americans. A short time later he became the father of the first California native whose parents were both American.

Colton and Semple printed their news on paper that has been described as "yellow tobacco wrap."

An account of each person whose memory has been honored by the California Newspaper Hall of Fame can be found in a booklet entitled Editors West.

A wonderful curry treat

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

In India, it is said that the closer you get to the equator the hotter the curry. This is why an American traveler, just back from a short visit there, might tell you that all curries are "red hot" or then again, "only moderately hot." It all depends on where he stayed. "Curry," the Tamil word for "sauce," actually is used as a background seasoning in Indian cooking, with most cooks beginning the day's chores by pounding whole spices on a curry stone with the aid of a crusher called a muller.

The spice blend curry powder was developed to achieve that background flavor of Indian cooking quickly and simply. The spices used in curry powder always include cumin, coriander and fenugreek seeds, tumeric and red pepper, combined in varying amounts. Different manufacturers also will use such other spices as cinnamon, allspice, cardamon, cloves, fennel, ginger, yellow mustard, mace and black pepper.

To bring out the fullest flavor in curry powder, saute it in butter (the Indians use clarified butter, called "ghee") before combining it with other foods. This recipe for mixed vegetable curry, a "mildly" seasoned favorite in North Indian cooking where potatoes and such vegetables as beans, carrots and peas are popular.

MIXED VEGETABLE CURRY

1 pound small potatoes, pared and cut in halves
1 pound fresh green beans, cut in 1-inch pieces
¾ pound carrots, pared, quartered lengthwise and cut in 1-inch pieces
1 package (9 ounces) frozen peas
½ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon curry powder
1¼ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ cup plain yogurt
1 tablespoon tomato paste

In large covered sauce pot cook one pound each potatoes and green beans, three-fourths carrots together in boiling salted water to cover, until vegetables are barely tender, about 15 minutes. Add the package peas; continue cooking until vegetables are just tender, about five minutes. Drain.

While vegetables are cooking, melt the half cup butter in a large skillet. Add the teaspoon curry powder, 1¼ teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon black pepper. Saute until curry turns slightly browner, about 30 seconds. Add to vegetables; stir to coat well. Simmer until piping hot, about five minutes. Remove from heat. Combine the fourth-cup yogurt and one tablespoon tomato paste. Stir into vegetables. Spoon onto serving dish.

Yield: 6 to 8 portions, about 5 cups.

NOTE: By using just one teaspoon curry powder, you make a very mild curry flavored dish: If you prefer a stronger flavor increase the curry powder to suit your taste.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

Think cool, think summer, and do keep thinking diet. Sometimes the heat makes it hard just to think, and that way lies danger.

It would be so easy to run to the delicatessen and snag a pound of potato salad plus some assorted cold cuts for tonight's dinner. Never mind the cooking, just dish it out.

It's no more difficult to buy some tins of salmon and tuna, some crispy, crunchy romaine, and chicory and arrange an attractive salad platter. Fill a cruet with your favorite diet dressing.

It also is easy to hollow out a summer-luscious tomato, fill it with diced cold chicken, and have half an iced melon for dessert.

There are many simple, cooling treats you can serve without resorting to the unusual summer standbys.

Why bother? Why not just put off the idea of dieting until the fall, or even the winter? While you're about it, why not wait until next spring so that in 1980 you can wear a figure-revealing-bathing suit?

Because we both know that's going to happen if you pursue this line of reasoning. You'll be deciding in 1980 to be thin in 1981. There is never a better time than right now to begin a diet. Just think, if you start with the next meal, by September you'll be a size smaller.

As a start on the entire proceedings, I am offering a good hot-weather diet idea:

BLENDER GASPACHO

1 cucumber, peeled and cut in chunks
1 green pepper, cut in chunks
2 cloves garlic
1½ can tomato juice
1 tablespoon onion flakes
2 tablespoon rice wine vinegar

Whirl all ingredients in blender. Chill. Serve with additional green peppers and cucumber.

Some other diet tips for dog days:

- Lots of iced tea or coffee ready in the refrigerator.
- Plain yogurt for a topping on fresh fruits.
- Freezer fruit juice in cups for a quick cold treat.
- Kebob vegetables to cook on the grill, not the stove.
- Serve cut-up cold roast in a hearty dinner salad.

Think cool, think summer, but keep thinking diet.

COMPLETES NAVY TRAINING

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid.

He joined the Navy in May 1979.

Mexican rodeo with Aguilar troupe

The National Mexican Festival and Rodeo, starring Tony Aguilar, Latin American film and recording star, again will bring rodeo entertainment to the Cow Palace for three performances Aug. 4 and 5.

Now on its 15th international tour, the Aguilar spectacular, featuring a cast of 60 performers, has been acclaimed by critics as the "best" Mexican show to visit the United States.

Stars of the festival again will be Aguilar, his actress-singer wife, Flor Silvestre, and their two sons, Tony Jr. and Pepito.

Highlighting the customs, culture and traditions of Mexico, the presentation includes:

Performing white stallions (Lipizzans), San Miguel Mariachi band, Carmen Tamura Folkloric dance group, rodeo events, death-defying movie stuntmen and the Aguilar family singing songs of Old Mexico and performing spectacular horsemanship feats.

Saturday's performance begins at 8 p.m., and Sunday's performances are at 2:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Foran offers SP resolution

State Sen. John F. Foran (Dem.-San Francisco/San Mateo) has introduced SJR 25 in support of continuing the Southern Pacific commuter train service between San Francisco and San Jose.

Foran's resolution asked the Southern Pacific Transportation Co. to withdraw its petition before the Interstate Commerce Commission asking permission to discontinue passenger rail service through the Peninsula. The resolution also asks the ICC to reject the administrative law judge's decision in favor of SP.

The problem started when Southern Pacific petitioned the ICC Nov. 15, 1977 for permission to discontinue the operation of passenger rail service between San Francisco and San Jose and intermediate points. On July 6, 1979, an ICC administrative law judge issued a preliminary ruling in favor of this petition.

The service will be terminated unless the decision is overturned by the ICC or the local public transit agencies negotiate a contract for service with Southern Pacific within six months. Such a contract would reimburse SP for its stated operating deficit of $11.5 million. The counties of San Mateo, Santa Clara and San Francisco jointly have allocated $1.05 million to subsidize SP commuter fares through a discount ticket program.

The ICC legal staff is recommending that the commission not concur in the judge's decision. The ICC will have hearings after exceptions are filed and it will be sometime in February before it issues a decision. If the ICC rules in favor of SP's petition, the state agencies and local community can appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Cow Palace has jobs open

The Cow Palace, an agency of the state of California (Department of Food and Agriculture, Division of Fairs and Expositions), is one of the numerous fairgrounds throughout the state seeking applicants for the positions of maintenance worker and senior maintenance worker. Application deadline is July 26.

These civil service positions are open to all persons meeting these work experience requirements:

Maintenance worker — Six months experience in gardening, grounds maintenance, general labor or comparable work. The salary range begins at $941 per month.

Senior maintenance worker — Six months experience as a lead person or supervisor in the maintenance and repair of buildings and grounds or one year experience in maintenance and repair of buildings and grounds. Salary range for this position starts at $1076 per month.

Upon acceptance of applications, candidates for maintenance worker will be notified of their qualifications appraisal interview, which will be in the fall. Senior maintenance worker applicants will be given a written pass/fail test Aug. 25, with their qualifications appraisal interview to be scheduled later. In both interviews, candidates must obtain a 70 per cent rating; the interview being weighted at 100 per cent.

In addition to general buildings and grounds upkeep, maintenance workers at the Cow Palace are involved in the setup of the various events staged at this multi-faceted arena, including the preparation of the Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show and Rodeo each fall, and the junior version each spring.

Further information about the positions available at the Cow Palace or locations of other vacancies in the district fairs system, can be obtained by calling the Cow Palace at 584-2480.

Employment applications will be mailed on request or may be collected in person at the Cow Palace general office, Geneva Avenue and Santos Street, Daly City.

VICTORIA STATION

Burlingame's newest departure in dining just arrived.

This is one stop you'll want to make for a thoroughly unique dining experience.

Located right on the water, our new restaurant features a spacious outdoor terrace with a striking view of San Francisco Bay. Inside, a skylight, fireplace, antique bistro bar, plus literally hundreds of authentic English railway artifacts, create a refreshingly appealing atmosphere.

The menu includes such favorites as our mouthwatering prime rib, savory seafood and a complimentary salad bar with a positively inspired selection of chilled crisp greens, fresh vegetables and dressings.

And our desserts, like Chocolate Mousse Victoria (made with real Ghirardelli chocolate), are in a class by themselves.

If you've been awaiting the arrival of a truly original eating establishment, do plan to make your reservations soon.

Lunch served Monday through Friday • Dinner served nightly • Brunch served Saturday and Sunday • Reservations encouraged • Major credit cards accepted • Smoking and non-smoking sections available.

Mary's Help honors its top volunteers

Mary's Help Hospital recently honored 46 volunteers for their contributions to the hospital. Each volunteer was presented with a pin engraved with the number of hours the volunteer has donated to the hospital. Their combined work represents approximately 40,000 hours of service, according to Mary McCoy, director of volunteers at Mary's Help.

The work of the volunteers at the hospital keeps them busy in all departments and on all patient floors. Volunteers can be found lending a hand in the admitting department, clinic, emergency room, library, gift shop, physical therapy, occupational therapy, nuclear medicine and x-ray. The volunteers also deliver mail and flowers to patients, as well as sponsor community outreach programs such as the Stroke Club and TeleCare.

But perhaps most important is the intangible service the volunteers render each week: The comfort and care of patients or the listening ear the volunteers provide for the lonely and frightened patient.

As McCoy pointed out at the ceremony, what sets volunteers apart from other workers is their nonmaterial motivation; it is genuine care and concern for other human beings that prompts each volunteer to serve the hospital community.

Beyond work in the various departments, the volunteers provide services by assisting with absentee voting for patients who are unable to get to a polling place or by participation in disaster drills conducted by the hospital.

Volunteers include high school and college students, employed persons, women in re-entry programs, retirees and a wide variety of other generous men and women.

Mary's Help Hospital is sponsored and operated by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul and is ad 1900 Sullivan Ave., Daly City.

These North County volunteers were awarded with hour pins.

WE WROTE THE BOOK ON LOW EVERYDAY PRICES

The plot is simple: to get the most food for your dollar, you need low prices on every item on your shopping list. That's what discount pricing is all about. And that's why Lucky pioneered discount pricing in California way back in 1967.

Lucky never writes your shopping list for you! We don't tell you what to buy or when to shop by enticing you with a few so-called "specials" good for a few days only. At Lucky, you'll find that prices on most items are lower by a few cents. And not just food and grocery items ... but books and magazines, health and beauty aids and other non-food items. And Lucky never tells you how much to buy by offering you "3 for this" or "5 for that". You'll always find one item for one price. So you won't have to carry a pocket calculator with you to know exactly how much it costs ... or how much you save!

No games, no stamps, no contests! Shopping for the food you serve your family shouldn't be a "game of chance". That's why you'll never find any games, stamps or contests or other gimmicky "give-aways" at Lucky. All those prizes cost money and must be paid for in higher food costs. At Lucky, everyone's a winner — with lower prices at the checkstand!

KEY BUYS—Don't call them "specials!" Other stores may lure you with so-called "specials" good for only a few days. But Lucky Key Buys not only represent geniune, short-term savings we pass on to you ... our lower price is in effect for at least 3 weeks (except Perishables). The savings might result from a super buy on a new item ... or from a temporary promotional savings offered by the manufacturer. Lucky passes the savings on to you and calls it a Key Buy. Watch for the symbol in our ads and on our shelves ... for savings that are real!

Most important of all!!! Savings are important at the checkstand. But it's quality and variety that count at the dinner table. At Lucky, you'll always find over 100 varieties of farm-fresh fruits and vegetables ... each picked at the peak of flavor and nutrition. And over 200 cuts of meat, fish and poultry that are guaranteed to satisfy you ... or you get a full refund.

Quality, variety and low discount prices in every department every day of the week. That's what discount pricing is all about — and Lucky Has It!

Rely on Lucky to Reduce Your Weekly Food Costs ... with Low Everyday Discount Prices!

Grand Nat'l rodeo on tap

More than $150,000 in premiums, six national shows and 14 livestock sales are on tap for the 35th annual Grand National Livestock Expsotion, Rodeo and Horse Show which will run Oct. 26 through Nov. 4 at the Cow Palace in Daly City.

The overall premiums this year top the 1978 total by about $4,100, Grand National Manager Dave Champman noted. Breakdown for this year's show: $107,736.50 for beef cattle; $16,372, swine; $25,391, sheep; $600, angora goats; and $1,870 in the wool show, a total of $151,969.50.

One of Chapman's major goals has been to acquire a substantial number of national shows for the 10-day exposition. This year's schedule includes the $12,500 Register of Merit Hereford Show, being staged for the fifth year at the Cow Palace; $12,500 Polled Hereford Standard of Perfection Show; $6,000 National Hampshire Junior and Senior Shows; $4.200 Hereford Register of Merit Pen of Five Bulls Show; $3,080 Western Breeding Swine Show, and $3,000 National Dorset Show.

Also, 14 livestock sales will be offered this year. Among them are the Cattlemen's All Breed Range Bull Sale, Feeder Sale, Charolais Breeding Cattle Sale, Golden Gate Simmental Classic Sale, West Coast Brangus Association Female Sale, and Pinzgauer Breeding Cattle Sale. The Pinzgauer breed is making its first appearance at the Grand National.

More than 3,000 quality animals from the United States and Canada are expected to compete in the prestigious livestock exposition. Running concurrently with the livestock portion of the Grand National will be the horse show and rodeo.

An estimated $125,000 in premiums and prize money will be awarded in the 1979 horse show. Once again, the show will be highlighted by three $10,000 events — the Golden Gate World's Championship Jumper Sweepstakes, Golden State Hunter Grand Prix Classic, and Golden State World's Championship Stock Horse Classic.

Top professional cowboys will vie for over $130,000 in the rodeo. This is the cowboys last chance to earn enough money to finish the season among the top 15 moneywinners in each event and qualify for the World Championships.

The 2½-hour arena performances are scheduled nightly at 8 (except Sundays at 7 p.m.), with matinees Saturdays and Sundays, plus a special performance Oct. 27 at 10:30 a.m. Seven rodeo events and horse show classes are scheduled for all 15 shows.

Tickets range from $3 to $8, except the final day when tickets are $4 to $10. Half-price rates for juniors and seniors are available Oct. 27 at 10:30 a.m. and Oct. 29 at 8:00 p.m.

For information, write the Cow Palace, P.O. Box 34206, San Francisco 94134, or call 584-2480 for livestock information or 334-4852 for tickets.

Tired of players who like to run front office

Without mentioning names — and I won't, not to avoid embarrassing anybody, but because my space is limited — I'm so tired of players who insist on adding to their duties the tasks of running the front office and managing that I'm about to consider seriously a print boycott on all such individuals.

It seems to me that playing big league baseball properly would be herculean task enough for anybody. And maybe the fact that so many players are not playing big league ball properly is due to their insistence on making out lineups, changing pitchers, making trades and the like. It is hard to do that and not get picked off base, screw up bunts, miss signals and forget where cutoff men are.

I have to believe that the game would be much easier if the players played, the managers managed and the general managers general managed.

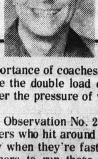
And, as a by-product of all of the above, I think that, given the circumstances (see above and remember all of the injuries and illnesses and perhaps over-rating), Joe Altobelli is doing a rather miraculous job in keeping the Giants not only out of last place, but at least obliquely in the hunt.

In the process, he has made me look bad, but I'll live with it, remembering that in pre-season I said the Giants would go only as far as their pitching would take them, because they were short on power and that a half-dozen teams in the National League had regular lineups at least the measure of or better than the Giants.

If the Giants were going as far as their pitching were taking them at this point in the season, they'd be chasing the Mets.

Observation No. 1: Major league coaches are much more important now than they were 20 years ago.

Expansion, the necessity of force-feeding kids into the big leagues and the resultant flood of players with great bodies and poor baseball minds, has put the burden of teaching on the major league level rather than solely in the minors, where it used to lie. Ergo, the greater importance of coaches in today's scheme of things. They have the double load of teaching kids to play the game under the pressure of winning.



Le Pacini

Observation No. 2: Singles hitters — that is, singles hitters who hit around .300 or even better — are valuable only when they're fast enough and/or good enough base runners to run those singles into doubles and to steal bases.

Singles hitters don't tend to knock in many runs. Sure, if they get on base often enough and have good hitters behind them they'll score their share, but if a singles hitter can't get himself into scoring position, then another batter in the lineup must, with a sacrifice or hitting behind the runner. Or, one extra man in the lineup must get a hit. Which means that teams with too many singles hitters who don't take extra bases on their own too often will need three rather than two hits to score a run.

Thus, Maury Wills, a singles hitter, was valuable. Thus, Pete Rose, who runs singles into doubles, is valuable.

If that consistent singles hitter is a slowpoke or klutz on the bases, his .300 batting average is just window dressing.

Many fans panicked when Joe Strain (a singles hitter who advanced himself to second) reported from Phoenix after the Bill Madlock trade and had a hard time getting hits for several games. "We thought this guy was a .300 hitter!" they were moaning. What they didn't realize was that Strain had been in a slump in Phoenix, which evidently hung over in San Francisco for a few games.

Also evident, the hangover has been cured.

It's surprising enough that the Giants, with their still low batting average, have for several weeks now been leading the league in runs scored. But imagine my shock last week when the official statistics showed the Giants to be tied for second place with the Cubs behind the Dodgers in home runs.

Power hitting and no pitching. It's indeed been an upside-down season for the Giants.

My nominee for Utility Player of the Year (aside from Pete Rose) is Pittsburgh's Bill Robinson, who over the years has played first and third bases and all over the outfield (and in many seasons, mixes them up) capably, and who never stops hitting, no matter what the position changes.

And isn't that a breath of fresh air in this era of specialists who blame everything from changes in climate to a shift in the batting order when explaining why their delicate psyches no longer can produce base hits.

Footnote: Milwaukee's Don Money is a close runner-up for that utility title.

Following is miscellaneous baseball trivia, as space allows, exerpted from a new book on the history of sports promotion in this country, "Hit the Sign and Win a Free Suit of Clothes from Harry Finklestein," by Bert Randolph Sugar:

The Cleveland Indians, whose nickname in the early part of the century was the Naps, actually were named after their star player, the future Hall of Fame second baseman, Napoleon Lajoie. When he left the club to join the Philadelphia Athletics in 1911, the Indians had to change their name, and they chose to do so by honoring another individual, an American Indian named Louis "Chief" Sockalexis, who had been a great and rather tragic hero for them just before the turn of the century and had died in 1914. And that's how the present Cleveland team got its name of Indians.

Almost anybody can win a bar bet with this one. Just trap someone into assuming that the Toronto club is the first big league team to ever be nicknamed the Bluejays. Even if someone guesses that there has been a Bluejays in the past, he probably will guess it as one of the ancient teams.

But for one year — 1944 — the Philadelphia Phillies changed their name to the Bluejays, which was a bright idea of the new owner, Robert Carpenter, who thought a different name would change the Phillies' luck. But they finished last, and once again became the Phillies in 1945 and presumably forever.

'Cal Academy' is important to all of us

By ARVILLE FINACOM

Generations of Bay Area residents have come to consider the California Academy of Sciences (located to one side of the Music Concourse in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park — the de Young Museum housing the Tut Exhibit is directly opposite) as the best place locally to show visiting friends and relatives superb natural science exhibits.

My memory of trips to the Academy began when the doors to the two great halls — North American and African — stood opposite each other, at right angles to the double entrance to the Aquarium. Although the buildings were connected in the form of a squared horseshoe enclosing a central courtyard on three sides, the public came and went only by the main doors. Inside, Cal Academy staff used the ones marked "private" and I can remember as a child being very curious about the people who worked there and their jobs.

Eventually, I found out about both and, because I feel the activities of those who work at Cal Academy are important to all of us, this week's column deals with the place popular with resident and tourist alike. Let me begin with "how it all began."

In April, 1853, five medical doctors, one real estate man and a school superintendent formed the academy with twin aims: to investigate and develop natural science and to become involved in public education about it. Although not a research and teaching facility in the same sense as colleges and universities, the Academy, in its 126-year history, has provided unparalleled study opportunities for professional scientists and serious amateurs well beyond the dimension of its permanent and changing exhibits, its frequent courtyard ceremonies and Hall of Man "living arts" programs.

Skilled plant botanists identify species within Bay Area biotic communities, answering questions from horticulturists, nurserymen and the general public. An herbarium (collection of dried plants) has close to 1½ million specimens. Some 6½ million specimens comprise one of the largest insect collections in the world. Many of these travel on loan to scientists elsewhere, helping to enlarge knowledge about the vital part this class of animals plays in the Earth's ecosystems.

Along with the public display of rocks and minerals, which has been an academy fixture for more than a generation, is the relatively new Fossil Hall, in which specialists and amateurs often are found checking out identifications. The Geology Department also maintains a seismograph and one of six gravity stations in the United States. Space science is not forgotten, nor is astronomy. One can visit the moon, orbit the planets or fly to the farthest stars at daily Morrison Planetarium shows as well as consider in a leisurely fashion cases full of clocks or watch a Foucault pendulum measure the hours.

Cal Academy's Department of Herpetology collection began in 1897. Although almost everything was lost when the 1906 earthquake and fire devastated San Francisco and destroyed the Academy's downtown Market Street building, specimens collected that year on an Academy exhibition to the Galapagos Islands off the coast of Ecuador furnished the nucleus of today's collection which, with its quarter-million specimens, is one of the five largest in the world.

An interesting spot among the Academy's research rooms is the storage area for the Galapagos tortoises collected in 1906. Shelved carefully in ascending tiers, the size and bulk of their enormous carapaces half hidden in the dim light, their sharp beaked heads peer down at one menacingly. Little wonder the room once was used to enhance a movie's web of illusion!

Steinhart Aquarium boasts over 14,000 living specimens. Some tanks are marked this summer with tiny boy king symbols to indicate "Fishes Tut Might Have Eaten." Elsewhere in the building, 150,000 bottles of preserved fishes comprise the third largest ichthyology collection in the world, which is used today extensively for comparative studies, especially in the area of fish poisoning by chemicals and other pollutants.

Academy zoologists currently are collecting information about our Bay and Delta invertebrate populations. Although birds and mammals make up the most extensive part of the Academy's permanent exhibits, few realize that over 100,000 study skins, skulls, and skeletons are available for specialized study. The bird collection from the 1905-06 Academy expedition to the Galapagos is the most comprehensive in the world. Study specimens of marine mammals, of special interest to us coastline dwellers, are housed together in a separate room.

Perspective

In addition to the science staff, a crew of craftsmen and technicians implements the ideas of designers and artists who seek to capture and communicate the essence of an exhibit accurately. Designers begin by constructing miniature models. Artists work from photographs and actual objects. Although in the resulting full-scale display many "rocks" are lightweight imitations, plants often are real, specially treated to retard deterioration. To see how these painstaking efforts are appreciated by the close to two million visitors to the Academy annually who come for recreation and diversion, as well as environmental education, just stand for awhile by an exhibit, perhaps the gorilla case in Simpson African Hall, and watch the reaction of viewers.

A full-time printer operates an offset press printing scientific papers by Academy scientists. Cal Academy publishes its own magazine, "Pacific Discovery," and maintains an extensive and up-to-date library with inter-library loan privileges for its staff and members. Membership, open to anyone, is available in categories beginning with "regular" at $15 a year. It entitles one to free admission to the Academy building at all times and provides some extra educational and travel opportunities.

It gives one the chance to attend pre-exhibit opening receptions as well as a behind-the-scenes open house annually. One receives a subscription to "Pacific Discovery" and a 10 per cent discount at museum shops. Membership also opens the door to volunteer work in a variety of areas, one of which is the Docent Council, whose informed guides conduct specially arranged school tours at the Academy itself and accompany in-school visits of "Supervan," Cal Academy's take-it-to-the-public sampling of exhibits.

Perhaps the most exciting emphasis visible in Cal Academy's diverse work is its contribution to our appreciation of who and what we are. On the wall of Cowell Hall, the Academy's glassed-in entrance foyer, along with a summary of the Academy's history and some artifacts from its past, stands a simple statement: "Since we are as much a part of that (natural) world as the specimens you see displayed, it is our habitat you are enjoying." I'm sure the seven farsighted citizens who formed the Academy would agree with that simple summation of their successors' efforts.

Birds catch colds

By D.R. BARNETT, DVM

A vegetable a day keeps the bird doctor away. The cold season has ended for humans but colds and respiratory problems pose a year around threat to many of the nation's 20 million pet or caged birds.

Wheezing, difficult or heavy breathing, nasal discharge and other "human cold" symptoms in a bird should be a cause of great concern to pet owners.

Bird cold symptoms are as varied as human conditions. Bacteria, viral, other infections and vitamin deficiencies are among the causes.

Animal Forum

Small portions of vegetables and fruits daily will prevent vitamin A and other nutritional deficiencies which plague many caged birds, particularly those which are fed only seeds. The deficiency of vitamin A can be detected by small abscesses in mouth or tongue.

Sometimes bird X-ray films are extremely useful in helping to diagnose lead poisoning and other problems. Birds, like children, are attracted to bright and shiny objects. sun-catchers commonly found on windows often are constructed with lead-based metallic frames. Some bright decorative paints, certain printing colors and other finishes often contain lead particles which may be fatal to small birds.

Like humans, some birds will eat anything. A friend recently lost a pet crow which found a spent lead air rifle pellet, promptly swallowed it and then died of lead poisoning. Birds have keen eyesight and often are attracted to paperclips, used staples, small pieces of wire, other fragments and small objects. Eating these sometimes can be fatal.

It's a good idea occasionally to let birds out of their protective cages as long as they are watched carefully. Birds are social creatures and they'll appreciate your supervision.

San Bruno decides to hire an administrative assistant

San Bruno's City Council has concluded a lengthy review of the 1979-80 budget, with very few significant changes in the original budget presented by City Manager Gerald D. Minford.

At its final session last week, the council did approve the hiring of an administrative assistant in the city manager's office, and also increased the library's book budget by $5,000.

Minford said Friday that he will present a recommended salary for the administrative assistant to the City Council at its regular meeting tonight.

He said his suggested salary for the employee will not exceed $15,000.

San Bruno restricts co-op conversions, too

San Bruno's City Council Monday night placed a 120-day moratorium on the conversion of apartments into co-operative housing.

The urgency ordinance came two weeks after the council approved a similar 120-day moratorium on the conversion of apartments to condominiums.

Its approval came on a 4-1 vote, with Councilman John Barnard opposed. Because it was an urgency ordinance, it required a four-fifths vote to become law.

The two 4-month moratoriums have been imposed by the council to allow the city time to conduct studies on the impact of conversions upon San Bruno. Those studies already have begun at the Planning Commission level.

"Whether the complexes use the co-op technique or the condominium technique, what happens to the property is basically the same," said City Manager Gerald D. Minford.

"It has the same impact on the community," he added. "This ordinance will clarify our position so there is no misunderstanding on the direction we are going."

Shelter Creek Apartments, located west of Interstate 280, has officially indicated that it will seek conversion of its 1,296-unit complex into 912 condominiums.

In addition, The Place apartments has indicated that it will seek cooperativestatus for its 901-unit complex.

A co-op is housing in which owners buy shares of an entire project owned by a corporation, rather than individual condominiums. When an owner sells, he sells his shares to another individual or back to the corporation.

The city's Planning Commission last Monday held its first hearing on proposed revisions to the city's existing codes regulation conversions.

Suggestions by Planning Director Juan A. Garcia include limiting the number of conversions to 500 per year, making a $1,000 payment mandatory to those displaced by conversions and requiring that 40 percent of the existing tenants must choose to buy the condominiums, or a conversion application cannot be sought.

Another public hearing on the matter is scheduled for July 30. In addition, the City Council will hold a special public hearing that same evening to discuss rent control, among other rent-related topics.

Soccer tryouts

Tryouts for the newly-formed Pacifica Soccer Association, an arm of the California Youth Socer Association, will be Saturday, Aug. 4, at Terra Nova High School, Pacifica.

Tryouts will begin a 11 a.m.

The soccer associaton will be divided into three age groups: 13 and under, 15 and under and 17 and under.

For more information, call 359-1774, 359-2499 or 359-4256.

Parks slates events

During the next few weeks, the San Bruno Park and Recreation Department's Summer Playground Program will be conducting a number of special events for San Bruno's children.

On Saturday, July 28, the fourth annual "Almost Anything Goes" competition, "creek boat race" and "Playground leaders Cardboard Boat Regatta" will take place.

In the "Almost Anything Goes" competition, teams of children, representing the various neighborhood playground programs, will face off in head-on-head battles.

The director of "Almost Anything Goes" competition, Asa Hilliard, promises wild and wacky fun for all participants. Immediately following the "Almost Anything Goes" competition, the "Creek Boat Race" will begin. Participants will race self-made boats down the creek of San Bruno Park. Then it is time for one of the summer favorites, the "Playground Leaders' Cardboard Boat Regatta."

Each playground leader will attempt to pilot a playground made craft across the treacherous waters of the San Bruno Park Pool. Stop by and see your neighborhood playground staff for more about this event.

During the three weeks prior to Aug. 9, each playground will be continously holding neighborhood contests leading up the San Bruno finals of the Pepsi Hot Shot shot competition.
